CHRIST NOW LEADS TO REJUVENATE CHURCH

By Herbert W. Armstrong

GOD'S CHURCH has been in mortal DANGER! That danger was WITHIN OURSELVES — the fatal danger of drifting away from Christ spiritually. The danger of putting worldly politics into our midst. The DANGER of saying, "I am of Paul — or I am of Apollos — or I am of Cephas." The DANGER of trying to slide as close as possible — without falling off — into the abyss of Satan's secularism and worldliness.

Some of us — brethren, TOO MANY OF US — HAVE, PERHAPS NOT REALIZING IT, been led to want to let — little by little — more of THIS EVIL WORLD into our lives.

Brethren, AWAKE! Satan is subtle. He DECEIVES — and a deceived person is not aware he is misled — else he would not be deceived. He may be wholly SINCERE — yet deceived!

The battle cry now, within God's one and only TRUE CHURCH, is "BACK TO CHRIST!" He is the one and only HEAD of God's Church! Not any man — though He does call and USE humans as His servants — but so can SATAN mislead and deceive men into unknowingly becoming his servants.

Brethren, my heart is heavy! We need to AWAKE to the FACT that we are now in THE LAST DAYS of this present evil world of Satan. We are in the time God says was to be a time of TRYING and TESTING of His people.

The GOOD news

Our Philadelphia era of God's Church (Revelation 3:7-13) has the PROMISE of the living Christ that we shall escape the soon-coming GREAT TRIBULATION with TROUBLES in the world such as never happened before or will again (Revelation 3:10; 12:14).

But the prophet Daniel warns us, "And at that time [of the end, Daniel 12:1] shall Michael stand up, the great prince which standeth for the children of thy people; and THERE SHALL BE a TIME OF TROUBLE, such as never was since there was a nation even to this time . . ." (See also Matthew

The June 5th "Good News" announced Christ had put the Church back on the track of Bible organization. He NOW leads to AWAKE the Church from secular drift and to recharge our spiritual batteries.

24:21-22.)

"Many shall be purified, and made white, and tried. . ." (verse 10). There are plenty of warnings of this same time of trial and testing in the New Testament. Brethren, COME to REALIZE we are in THAT TIME.

But our GOD is on His throne. And the living HEAD of this Church is also on THAT THRONE.

When frightening times of trying and testing come — and they have been coming tenfold recently — I have not the ability to outwit Satan — my refuge and deliverance is in the LIVING CHRIST! Not only is HE there on His Father's throne, but the arch-angel Michael is also STANDING UP AGAINST SATAN FOR US.

Satan is now at the white-hot HEAT OF WRATH, knowing he has but a short time (Revelation 12:12). We are at the time when, "there was WAR IN HEAVEN: Michael and his angels fought against the dragon [Satan]; and the dragon fought and his angels [demons], and prevailed not; neither was their place found any more in heaven." (Revelation 12:7-8).

CHRIST will prevail

Christ warns us, "Be sober, be vigilant; because your adversary the devil, as a roaring lion, walketh about, seeking whom he may devour." He IS seeking to devour YOU! But God continues,

"whom resist STEDFAST IN THE FAITH" (1 Peter 5:8-9).

We are now in the LAST DAYS — when "perilous times shall come. For men shall be lovers of their own selves, covetous, boasters, proud . . . lovers of pleasures more than of God."

Brethren, first let me tell you of a personal experience I had, just before Garner Ted was born. My wife was excessively anemic, lacking iron in her blood. The doctor feared having delivery of the baby at home and insisted she must go to the hospital.

I had anointed and prayed for her healing, but the anemia had not left. I did not have the money to pay for the hospital bill — and the hospital bill for the delivery of my firstborn son, Richard David, had not been paid. The hospital would not admit my wife until that bill was paid.

It was a frightful dilemma. I was helpless. I knew where to turn, however — to the living God. I began with fasting and prayer. It was a Sabbath morning. Taking no breakfast, I read the Bible for one hour, hoping to find the REASON my wife had not been healed of the anemia. Then I devoted the next full hour to prayer. The hour after that I just sat and meditated, asking God to show me where I had failed that her healing had not come. Then another hour of Bible study, followed by another full hour of prayer and then an hour of meditation.

I DID NOT PRAY FOR HER HEALING — but rather, that God would show me what was wrong in my life that my prayer for healing had not been answered.

This same rotation of an hour of Bible study followed by an hour of prayer and then an hour of meditation continued until bedtime, and then again on Sunday.

About 1:30 that afternoon one of our daughters called out, "Here come Grandpa and Grandma driving up our driveway!"

By this time God had shown me what was wrong with me. I had been drifting into having my mind

SPECIAL ISSUE

This issue of The Good News is being sent to all head-of-household members and co-workers. Herbert W. Armstrong, in June 13 member and co-worker letter, states that the articles on this page are vital to the Work and should be read carefully.

HERE ARE THE ACTUAL RECORDS SHOWING 30%-per-year, 35-year GROWTH — and WHY and HOW Growth Then Stopped

By Herbert W. Armstrong

RUMORS have gone out that when I have said so many times God's Work grew 30 percent per year the first 35 years my statements were untrue.

The rumor started to spread that I grossly misrepresented — that the Work grew very slowly that first 35 years, but that it did in fact really grow faster AFTER 1969.

Brethren, it is NOW IMPORTANT that you know the TRUTH. I have had three departments of the Work — Pastoral Administration, Mail Processing and Financial Affairs — give me the ACTUAL RECORDS — YEAR BY YEAR — UP TO THE PRESENT!

The actual RECORDS give you the truth!

Let me quote briefly from the article in the June 5th Good News:

"For 35 years the Work of God grew steadily at the rate of approximately 30 percent a year. I do not know of any organization, secular or religious, that has shown so remarkable growth, starting from NOTHING financially (though we started with something greater — FAITH in the living Christ as HEAD of the Church and the Work). This Work was built literally on FAITH."

"The living Christ blessed it richly, even though there was carnal opposition and persecution from the beginning. . .

"Meanwhile I was going in person, with our advertising agent of that time, to managers of radio stations all over the United States, especially the major 50,000-watt stations, obtaining time for a DAILY half-hour program. This is what, more than any other physical means, BUILT THE WORK — kept it growing 30 percent a year! . . .

"This, truly, is one of the most incredible success stories of our time. There is a very significant reason. For it is the story of what THE LIVING GOD CAN DO — and has done — through a human instrument, called and chosen by HIM — whose eyes He opened to astounding TRUTH — one He reduced to humble obedience, yielded in faith and dedicated to GOD'S WAYS! . . .

"Brethren, READ THIS SERIOUSLY! Jesus Christ, the living HEAD of God's Church, started this present era of His Work through me. I DID NOT BUILD THE WORK OR THE CHURCH — the living Christ built it, using me as His instrument and His apostle.

"But I made the mistake, unrealizing that mistake, of allowing an office of authority to be injected BETWEEN ME AND THE MINISTRY AND CHURCH!

"For the first 35 years of this Work, I was the sole human in

Deep trouble ahead in Panama

PASADENA — When the United States Senate approved the new Panama Canal treaties earlier this year, the prevailing view from the pro-treaties side was that America was ushering in a new era of peace and harmony with Panama, indeed with the whole of Latin America. The new treaties, Americans were told by President Jimmy Carter and others, assured the smooth, orderly transition of control of the canal from the United States to Panama by stages, to be completed by the year 2000.

Reality is far from this rosy-hued picture, however. Events taking shape right now in Panama indicate that there could be big troubles just over the horizon on the isthmus. After 10 years of military rule, Panama is about to revert to its customarily volatile political climate.

And when the dust finally settles, the U.S. position at the strategic world crossroads could be on extremely shaky ground much sooner than most people expected.

The President's gamble

By the end of this week (as this article is written) President Carter is expected to visit Panama City to exchange the instruments of ratification of the treaties with Gen. Omar Torrijos. Both the legality and the decorum of this move by the President is seriously questioned by many senators and members of the House, even by some who supported him on the canal issue itself.

The reason: Congress has not yet passed enabling legislation to implement the treaties. This legislation, which would authorize the U.S. government to turn over the billions of dollars of American property in the zone to Panama, is not expected to be completed for several months yet. Congress has, in fact, until March 31, 1979, to do so.

In jumping the gun, President Carter is gambling that such legislation will pass (the treaties are of no effect unless it does). In the same manner that he dared the Senate to turn down the treaties after he had signed them, he is gambling that the Congress will not think of rejecting the necessary authorization at this late date.

Passage of the enabling legislation, however, is by no means certain. In fact several resolutions have recently been introduced in the House to block it.

Arias returns

Seriously complicating the issue is the arrival in Panama last weekend of Arnulfo Arias, Panama's last popularly elected president who was overthrown in 1968 by the national guard coup that brought dictator Torrijos to power. He had been in exile in Miami, Fla. (After the treaties were passed by the U.S. Senate, Torrijos opened the door once again to internal political opposition in Panama.)

Arias, an enigmatic cat-with-nine-lives figure who was also overthrown twice before (in 1941 and 1951), lost no time whatsoever in denouncing both Torrijos and the new canal pacts engineered by the Torrijos regime. He decried the latter as a sellout of Panama's sovereign interests and "dignity," since they give the United States the right to intervene militarily to defend the canal even after the year 2000.

Arias told a large rally of his supporters that the treaties will be "a source of friction" between America and Panama in years ahead. Arias' stated objection to the treaties is that the United States negotiated the treaties with a dictator instead of himself, a democratically elected leader. But down deep Arias is angry because Torrijos is the leader who got the credit for the canal victory over the yanquis, not him. However, Arias may still try to earn some points as Panama's final canal "liberator" by kicking the Americans out earlier than 2000.

Torrijos has talked about having elections again soon, possibly this fall. He himself might be a candidate, he has said. Certainly the 77-year-old Arias will try to make it the fourth time around and possibly could win.

Treaties in limbo

Being positive

By Dexter H. Faulkner

Decisions, decisions. As the saying goes, those who hesitate between being positive or negative are in an unfortunate position. By remaining in the middle of the road they incur the danger of being run over by both lanes of traffic instead of only one.

If we sit on the fence, uncommitted and undecided, we live an unrewarding sort of life. After all, doing nothing has its consequences just as surely as doing something.

Positive action

The record of both Bible and secular history abounds with the deeds of men and women who said, "I can," while it is silent concerning those who sat back and said, "I can't."

Victory tends to favor those contestants who fight under the banner of positive action. They are the ones who have trained themselves to think actively: What actions am I going to take? instead of wondering: What is going to happen to me now?

Happy and fulfilled people claim it is better to fail in carrying out a project than to avoid failure by not trying at all.

Fork in the road

Many of us will go through our allotted span of life seldom confronted by a life or death question or a decision that will determine the course of our future. But we all are required to decide smaller and sometimes puzzling matters daily.

And one's overall approach and attitude, whether positive or negative, plays a big part in whether those matters are decided to our benefit.

As we come to that inevitable fork in the road and must decide what to do, we have three options: sit down, step out on this or that of the diverging paths or turn our back on the problem and go home.

The ingredients

Ingredients that help us make the right decision are positive and constructive attitudes, enthusiasm in meeting life's challenges and a commitment to meeting set goals.

Because we view life as more than a torrent of events without form or purpose, we can make decisions with confidence.

Knowledge is the bedrock upon which our judgment rests and we gain skill in decision making by positive application of newly learned and established principles. That is why daily Bible study is so important in Christian growth.

There is a sad complaint too many times heard: "We can't change the world." That may be true but must we give in and join the deteriorating elements in it?

Looking forward

While all of us can expect our share of frustrations, we should look forward to life's triumphs, which arise from our ability to meet fear and frustration positively.

We hear so many today lamenting their lack of progress and happiness: "If only I had a new car; if I were 25 years younger; if I had stayed in school; if I had a decent, understanding boss; if I had better health." Is it that we hope to assuage a sense of failure by refusing to acknowledge that we have the responsibility to create our own success?

Being positive means shifting your thoughts from things that are against you and focusing them on the vast power that is for you. It is the positive use we make of our capacities that determines the success of our efforts.

treaties will be in an awkward limbo between ratification and implementation, with nobody in Washington or Panama City quite knowing where he stands. And to make things doubly worse, there are reports that the Panamanian foreign ministry has repudiated the several amendments (such as the DeConcini reservation guaranteeing perpetual American defense rights) that the U.S. Senate tacked onto the treaties, without which they would not have been approved.

Thus Washington views the treaties one way, Panama another way — or possibly, with Arias in power, yet a third way. To put it simply: It's all a mess and getting worse!

Uncle Sam the scapegoat

There are some in the United States, knowledgeable of the Panama situation, who attest that Arias is really quite pro-American down deep and more easy to deal with than Torrijos. Others hold the opposite view. One of these is Professor Donald M. Dozer of Santa Barbara, Calif. (quoted in the June, 1977, Plain Truth article on the canal).

Dr. Dozer knows Arias quite well. He told me by telephone the other day that Arias had taken a very stubborn stand toward the United States in 1941 on the eve of World War II. At the time America needed greater defense capability in and near the zone, Arias proved noncooperative, and, in fact, displayed open pro-German sentiments. While out of Panama to visit his mistress in

Havana, Cuba, he was deposed with some U.S. "assistance." (He was, nevertheless, in clear defiance of his own constitution that stated the president could not leave the country except on official state business.)

Heading for deep trouble

Professor Dozer insisted that the United States is "heading for deep trouble in Panama. As long as America possessed clear, unassailable sovereign rights in its own separately administered Canal Zone, the volatile Panamanian political scene could go its own chaotic way. The beauty of the original 1903 treaty lay in the fact that it clearly delineated the powers of each country. But now, with the canal soon to be under Panamanian sovereignty, domestic politics will spill over, to the detriment of the waterway's operations.

In the coming election the reduced but continued American presence at the canal will be the prime scapegoat target of all the politicians; each candidate will have to sound more anti-American than his rival; each politician will promise to outdo all the others in extracting a better deal out of Washington.

The rosy view of U.S.-Panama relations humming along harmoniously until the year 2000 was a foolishly naive notion. America, because of mounting national sins, will lose effective control of this pivotal God-given "seagate" (see Genesis 22:17; 24:60) considerably before then.

Correction

In an article entitled "Visit is 'landmark' for Sri Lanka Church" (Good News, June 5) it is stated that the church in Sri Lanka started in 1969 with a visit by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Frankel. It should be added that the first baptizing tour into Sri Lanka was taken by C. Wayne Cole (at that time regional director in Sydney, Australia) in December, 1962. At that time four people were baptized in Sri Lanka.

That tour also took Mr. Cole to Singapore where four people were baptized — including Yong Chin Gee, who was recently ordained as an elder, the first among the brethren in Malaysia — and to Kuala Lumpur, Penang and Bangkok. Then he proceeded to Pasadena for the January, 1963, ministerial conference before returning to Sydney.

Mr. Cole and Don Abraham made the second baptizing tour to Sri Lanka as part of an extensive trip to India for the Ecumenical Congress in Bombay and Pope Paul's visit to India) and Southeast Asia in 1964.

supreme command, UNDER CHRIST. . . . During those 35 years the Church and the Work GREW AND GREW AND GREW! It had Christ's BLESSING!

"I KNEW that GOD'S FORM OF ORGANIZATION IS FROM THE TOP DOWN! I DID NOT REALIZE that allowing an office of authority to be interjected BETWEEN me and the Church was contrary to God's form of human organization.

"WHAT RESULTED? Great confusion in the Church — especially in and around headquarters. 'WHO IS REALLY IN AUTHORITY?' many wondered, perplexed. The Work STOPPED GROWING. . . ."

Meeting with kings

Let me add here that after 1969 the MOST IMPORTANT phase of the Work did grow — while I was having personal, private meetings, by invitation, with kings, emperors, presidents, prime ministers and others in high office in governments all over the world — in Asia, the Middle East, Africa, South America and Europe. And this was leading to personal PUBLIC CAMPAIGNS, reaching people by the hundreds and thousands in these gentile countries.

But both the membership and the financial income DROPPED OFF ALARMINGLY!

The Work and the Church started in August of 1933. It started from ZERO financially. I had no automobile. I had to hitchhike or depend on members to get me to the places where I was preaching six nights a week.

By 1942 I started the first DAILY half-hour broadcasting over a strong Hollywood station. Our BIGGEST RATE OF GROWTH was from 1942 to 1955. I have not been furnished the records of member increase until 1950 and of income rate of growth until 1955.

Below are the exact figures from our records:

Year	Percentage	Growth average: 56 percent
1950	44.1	Growth average: 56 percent
1951	71.4
1952	125.0
1953	4.8
1954	34.8
1955	21.7
1956	33.2		Growth average: 31.7 percent
1957	30.9
1958	58.2
1959	30.1
1960	10.1
1961	16.2
1962	15.5
1963	36.5
1964	1.9
1965	16.2
1966	20.1	Growth average: -1.8 percent
1967	7.1
1968	24.5
1969	3.2
1970	4.6
1971	6.7
1972	6.7
1973	-1.8
1974	16.2
1975	-12.7
1976	-11.9
1977	-27.3

Biggest percentage of growth was in years 1942, when first on air DAILY, to 1955 — do not have the records available at this time.

Increases in donation income over previous year since 1955:

Year	Percentage	Growth average: 26.2 percent
1955	34.0	Growth average: 26.2 percent
1956	28.0
1957	24.0
1958	35.0
1959	31.0
1960	26.0
1961	25.0
1962	30.0
1963	29.0
1964	26.0
1965	25.0
1966	24.0
1967	23.0
1968	35.0
1969	31.0
1970	12.0
1971	11.0
1972	9.6
1973	1.0
1974	-1.7
1975	-4.8
1976	6.7
1977	6.2

Beginning 1969 the DAILY half-hour radio broadcasting was gradually — and severely — reduced. Instead the Garner Ted Armstrong television programs were replacing daily half-hour radio. THEY WERE DOCUMENTARY PROGRAMS primarily, dealing primarily with conditions of the WORLD — not the KINGDOM OF GOD.

In 1972 we started daily telecasting on GOSPEL subjects, but after a time these telecasts became more and more SECULAR, dealing primarily with this world's politics. Finally the radio programs were virtually eliminated, going to five-minute programs. This was almost disastrous, as the records of results show.

Brethren, Jesus Christ has now put HIMSELF back as the living HEAD of God's Church and Work.

I have to say to you, in truth, that my mistake in allowing a position of authority to be inserted BETWEEN myself and the Church led to GREAT CONFUSION as to WHO IS IN CHARGE — WHO IS THE REAL LEADER IN THE CHURCH.

That is now CORRECTED.

The living JESUS CHRIST is the HEAD of this Church. It's time we quit saying, as did the Corinthian church, "I am of Paul — I am of Apollos. I am of Peter," etc.

As one Church official said the other day, many in the Church have drifted so far away from the knowledge of WHO IS THE REAL LEADER of this Church that they have forgotten that JESUS CHRIST is our LIVING HEAD! The Church of GOD is ruled by HIM — not the brethren or one they might choose, BUT AS CHRIST HAS CHOSEN AND IS LEADING, UNDER HIM!

more on our troubles and material problems. I had gotten away from that closeness to God needed to receive answers to prayer. But now I was back very close to GOD. Now I knew He would hear and answer my petition.

A quick prayer

I made a very quick prayer — perhaps not over 15 seconds. It flashed to my mind that other things were direly needed. I asked God again to heal my wife: I asked Him also to provide for the hospital bill. I asked Him to send us food — for we were completely out. And I asked Him to send wood for fuel (we then used wood for the kitchen cook stove and the living-room stove).

I told Him I was out of money and the house rent was due and asked Him to provide that. I asked Him to provide me with a new overcoat. It was late January, and all I had was a thin topcoat with a hole 4-to-6 inches wide on one side of the seat. Then quickly I said, "Lord, You say that You know what things we have need of before we ask You — so send also anything I have forgotten to ask."

Then I closed that hurried-up prayer and went out to greet my parents. My father was lifting out of his Model-A Ford arm loads of wood. He had removed the rear seat and filled the space with wood. Mother was carrying into our house a large covered pan with a big dinner ready to be warmed and eaten.

The next morning on waking we discovered my wife's cheeks were rosy. The morning mail — the very first delivery since my quick prayer — brought a letter that her share of a will left to her mother would immediately take care of the hospital bill. The doctor was dumbfounded that morning, announcing that the anemia was gone.

A new overcoat came to me during the Monday noon hour. Late that Monday afternoon the merchandising department of the Portland (Ore.) Oregonian asked me to conduct a survey for the Bissel Carpet Sweeper Co., and this covered the rent bill and other needs.

But that wasn't all. A day later my youngest brother, Dwight, drove over and said he wanted me to keep his car and use it — for in case I had to take my wife, Loma, to the hospital during a night, I would have transportation. I had no car at the time.

Thursday evening my sister came over. She said, "The strangest thing happened this afternoon. I was praying, and in my mind I heard a voice saying, 'Take a robe over to Loma!' This was repeated. She was startled. She said to us, 'I don't know why I was told to bring this robe to you, but here it is.'"

"Oh," exclaimed my wife, "I had completely forgotten — but I do not have a robe, and I will need one in the hospital."

Value of prayer

Some of you brethren have heard this before — because I think it is an experience that needs telling to help others to know the value of PRAYER.

Brethren of GOD'S CHURCH, our whole membership IS SORELY IN NEED OF FASTING AND PRAYER.

Therefore I am, as God's apostle, appointing Sabbath, June 24, as a day of SPECIAL FASTING AND PRAYER for the spiritual awakening and rejuvenation of the ENTIRE CHURCH, which is "THE BODY of the living CHRIST!"

Evangelist in New York; speaks to 2,000 brethren

By Mark A. Kellner
NEW YORK — Speaking to an audience of more than 2,000, C. Wayne Cole, evangelist, director of the worldwide ministry and personal assistant to Herbert W. Armstrong, said he wanted to bring a hopeful, inspiring message to those assembled at Pentecost services Sunday, June 11.

Mr. Cole had been asked to speak here some six or seven months ago by Elbert Atlas, the Church's Northeast Area coordinator in the United States. His visit to New York included a Sunday evening conference with area ministers.

"We live today in the presence of greatness," Mr. Cole told his audience. He was referring to Mr. Armstrong, whom he noted was feeling very well, and was very strong.

"We have a beautiful understanding of the truth," he added. "There never has been a time when we should cease to grow."

"There's a big world out there that needs this message," he said.

Mr. Cole took note of the recent administrative changes in the Work in both his morning comments and afternoon sermon. He said that he sees "light and hope" in these changes.

Mr. Cole recalled how he had been at Ambassador College in 1952 and 1953, a time when trouble and trauma rocked the campus. He said that he had the opportunity to leave then if he had wanted to leave, but did not.

"I'm going to follow . . . wherever the mantle of authority falls," he continued.

In his sermon Mr. Cole noted that John had been quite old; in his mid-80s, when he wrote his general epistles and was probably past 90 when he compiled the book of Revelation.

Mr. Cole said that there may well have been those who criticized John's work because of his age at the time. He also highlighted the story of Joseph and noted how God led him through a series of circumstances, unusual at the time, perhaps, to fulfill the special purpose He had in store for Israel.

He urged his audience to consider these points when viewing the recent changes in the Work.

"Is there any uncertainty that is too great for God to handle?" he asked. "God at times moves in mysterious ways in His Church to direct us," he said.

In an interview after his sermon, Mr. Cole expressed optimism about the immediate future of the Work.

"I feel that we must differentiate between the trauma we're experiencing and the hope for the future generated by the moves being made."

"Basically the Church is stable," Mr. Cole said.

When asked about Mr. Herbert Armstrong's physical health and if he felt that he was up to the hectic agenda he has set for himself, Mr. Cole said, "Yes, he is remarkably well."

AMBASSADOR COLLEGE ANNOUNCES NEW DIPLOMA PROGRAM

The Ambassador College School of Biblical and Ministerial Studies has announced an innovative diploma in biblical studies program, which will begin this fall at the Pasadena campus.

The new 30-unit nondegree program is described as "a unique college-level program designed to give increased biblical understanding and to promote spiritual development."

"We are trying to capture the essence of what has made Ambassador College different," said Dr. George T. Geis, dean of faculty. "I think the people working with this program are very sensitive to the needs of college-age people and are very eager to help them grow and develop in the spiritual and social dimensions of their lives."

(A feature-length article on the diploma program is scheduled to appear in a future issue of The Good News.)

Any student who has questions or desires additional information about the diploma program may write to the Ambassador College Admissions Office, 300 W. Green St., Pasadena, Calif., 91123, or call (213) 577-5027, leaving his or her name and phone number. A member of the faculty will return the call as soon as possible.

Coordinators meet in Pasadena

PASADENA — United States area coordinators met with Wayne Cole June 13 and 14 for regularly scheduled administrative meetings.

The coordinators normally meet with headquarters' officials four times each year to keep posted on administrative programs and to provide an updated look at the Churches' needs and progress.

Ronald Kelly was in attendance as the newest area coordinator. Mr. Kelly replaces Guy Englebart in the Denver, Colo., area. Mr. Englebart, his wife, Penny, and their children are moving to Cleveland, Ohio, where he will be the area coordinator for the newly formed Cleveland area.

The first meeting, which included key headquarters' personnel, provided an update regarding the latest personnel and departmental changes in the Work.

Other sessions included presentations on the new ministerial education programs by school administrators and members of the faculty and a discussion and film on alcoholism by Dale Hampton, head of Human Potential Center's section on Alcoholism.

The meetings centered on budget and manpower. Final manpower decisions were made on churches that had yet to be assigned pastors in the normal summer round of transfers. Those names will be announced as soon as they are confirmed.

Twelve ordination recommendations were reviewed for local-church elders. Four preaching elder recommendations will also be given to Herbert W. Armstrong for review and approval. Plans were discussed to have the local elders ordained before their respective congregations prior to the Feast of Tabernacles. The preaching elders are to be elevated at the Festival.

Parents choose 'difficult path' for partially deaf daughters

By Dan P. Greyling

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — What is it like to have a deaf child? What are the problems and frustrations of a deaf child faces? How do the parents of deaf children cope?

I found the answers to these questions in an interview with Brian and Sue Price, parents of Deanna, 7, and Lauren, 5. Both girls suffer a hearing loss; Lauren has about 75 percent hearing, Deanna only 20 percent.

When I interviewed Mr. and Mrs. Price, both longtime members of the Church, they had just learned that Deanna had passed her first year of schooling. This was a remarkable achievement because the English medium school she attends does not cater specifically to deaf children. The Prices were understandably exuberant.

In her first year of classes Deanna was integrated with normal children. In fact, neither Deanna nor Lauren has been taught sign language, the medium used by schools for the deaf.

"It is our intention, as much and for as long as is possible, to integrate both our daughters with normal-hearing children," Mrs. Price says. "We hope that this will be a permanent arrangement but realize full well that it is going to take a lot of patient, hard work."

Exceptionally good

Mrs. Price says that, when Deanna was a baby, she didn't seem to be disturbed by loud noises. "I therefore usually had the radio on and used the vacuum cleaner in her room whilst she was sleeping. Because she slept through all this noise, we thought her to be an exceptionally good child. Little did we know."

"When Deanna was 6 months old I went into her bedroom one morning to see her. I called her name, but she did not turn around. I clapped my hands. Still no response. Only when she felt me touch the cot and saw my shadow did she turn her little head and smile."

The Prices now realized for the first time there was something wrong with their daughter's hearing.

Tests confirmed Deanna had severe nerve deafness.

At the tender age of 11 months, Deanna began her speech therapy. Sue and Brian vividly recall those days, when everything they did had to be translated into noise, a sound. It was talk, talk and more talk, all to make Deanna aware there was a world of sound.

The monotonous hours upon hours of therapy and home training finally paid off when, at age 2 years, Deanna spoke her first word: "ball."

About this time, Mrs. Price gave birth to her second daughter, Lauren, who was born with normal hearing. When Lauren was 18 months old, however, her parents discovered she also had a hearing loss, attributed to a fluid buildup behind both eardrums. When she was anointed the fluid disappeared, but the hearing loss remained.

Expenses started piling up for Brian and Sue. Private therapy, hearing aids and travel costs were taking their toll. But they wanted the best for their girls and were prepared to sacrifice.

Adjusting and helping

The Price kids, as they are affectionately known, are otherwise normal, healthy children, mischievous and independent.

"The biggest problem," Mrs. Price says, "has always been ourselves. To adjust, to teach and help our children to lead as normal a life as possible."

"At first I was upset that my daughters, Deanna in particular, would never hear a bird singing or hear my voice. I often wonder if she dreams. And, if she does, does she dream of words? Also, what are her thoughts? But I do take strength from the fact that one day soon she will be able to hear."

The private school Deanna attends has, thanks to the efforts of a society for hard-of-hearing children, fitted a unit and classroom with headphones and amplification, and the society has employed teachers who are fully qualified to teach these children. All expenses are covered by the society, which had been formed by Deanna's speech therapist and ear specialist.

So far Deanna has no hang-ups about her ears. She knows they don't work properly, in the same way people who wear glasses have weak eyes or someone in a wheelchair has something wrong with his legs.

Interested in dance

But a problem her parents have noticed is that Deanna tends not to keep friends for very long. They are inclined to become impatient with her.

She and her sister are interested in dance and plan to begin ballet lessons taught by a teacher who instructs deaf children in the art. The Prices hope the lessons will contribute toward solving Deanna's social problem.

Brian and Sue Price have chosen the difficult path in bringing up their daughters. It would have been easier to have them mix with other hard-of-hearing children and learn sign language, they believe. But that is not the way they want it.

Ludwig van Beethoven comes to mind. In spite of his deafness, the German composer wrote some of his most beautiful music when he could not hear it.

Mrs. Price had the final word in our discussion: "We are confident that, with continued trust in God, Deanna and Lauren will continue to improve and benefit from the course of training we have chosen."

Crime prevention begins at home

By Sidney Lyle

ODESSA, Tex. — Crimes of every conceivable nature are being committed every hour of the day and night. Local municipal and county enforcement officers are at a loss in trying to curb the runaway crime problem. Because of the ever-increasing case load there is the inevitable decrease in cases solved. Officers must divide their investigation time between a larger number of reported crimes.

State government is getting into the picture with special committees and fact-finding commissions appointed by the governor. And, of course, the federal government is dumping an avalanche of cash down the crime-infested rat hole. Where will it all stop?

First we should consider where it got started. It began in the home when what is now a deceitful contriving criminal mind was a young impressionable inquisitive child. Then something went wrong. As the youngster grew his values became twisted, judgments became a thing of emotion and human dignity gave way to greed. It has become all too easy to blame society for our own ignorance and to find excuses for our failures in the questionable conduct of other people.

Traced to home

Almost all instances of criminal behavior can be traced back to what was or was not taught in the home. Therefore, what is needed across America is a new commitment to true family togetherness and an unrelenting drive to upgrade the quality of family life.

Of course, it is basically just such a commitment that will produce the next generation of young citizens. As for the problem people we presently have ravaging the cities and countryside we must continue to cope with them with whatever means available.

Counter the effects

You can counter the effects of the crime problem at your home or business by knowing how the criminal mind functions and implementing reasonable steps to protect your property.

Little people, giant man, huge task

'PT' article helps save people

PASADENA — A Plain Truth article entitled "To Save a People" has done much to live up to its title, reports Jean-Pierre Hallet, an explorer who devotes most of his life to the study of the survival of the pygmies of the Ituri Forest in eastern Zaire.

"To Save a People," (January, 1976, PT) has done much to help his efforts to save the pygmies from the menace of extinction brought on by civilization.

The 6-foot-5 Belgian-born Hallet, now 50, is called father of the pygmies by the people he lived among for many years.

Hallet, now living in California when not visiting his proteges, has written three books on his experiences and observations in Africa.

In 1973 Hallet met Dr. Herman Hoeh, then senior editor of The Plain Truth, who says of Hallet, "I count Jean-Pierre as one of those men in my life whom it was worth living to meet."

Their friendship produced the article "To Save a People," which originally was scheduled as the cover story for the Work's Human Potential magazine.

In the following interview with The Good News, Hallet brings his activities up to date and shares his philosophy of life:

Can we learn anything from the pygmies?

"To me the pygmies show that what is called progress is the destruction of the fiber of society, the family. The pursuit of happiness, that is, the American way of life, is, in my opinion, nonsense.

"The pygmies show us that you don't go after happiness, you experience happiness. The experience of happiness is the enjoyment of being alive, to share and care and love other people. That should be number one. Also the first quality that any human being should have is courage. The courage of believing, the courage of doing what one thinks is right, the courage to stand his ground, the courage of his age, the courage of anything. And what really destroys people is the fear of growing old, the fear of losing a job, the feeling of losing social status.

Consumer-product advertising is very much based on exploitation of fear, like the fear of dying. If someone is really faithful and totally believes in God, why should he ever be afraid of dying?

"I almost died 19 times in my life. But I didn't want to die, I didn't want to die, and therefore I didn't."

"It is easy to die, and it's hard to live when you are enduring extreme suffering. When I lost my hand I was bleeding to death and I was 203 miles from a hospital. I had to swim 300 feet among crocodiles and I had to get to my truck and drive around curve after curve on an impossible road. But I decided I have to do it because I think life is worth living."

Why do the pygmies need saving?

"No one questions saving the whales and other endangered species. Why question saving a unique people? When I grew up with the pygmies in the 1930s there were about 35,000 of these healthy, delightfully happy and highly moral people. Today there are less than 4,000.

"The pygmies' ancestral forest was being increasingly chopped down by greedy lumber operators. When we take away their forest it's like taking away our supermarket, family doctor, pharmacy, everything."

How do you go about saving them?

"One thing I don't do is give them anything, because a gift or a handout is an insult to people you want to help. Everything I'm doing is to help them solve their problems with dignity and self-respect, that they feel they are doing it on their own and not because of contemptuous outside help.

"The most realistic way to help them survive the negative impact of encroaching civilization is to provide them with a slow and realistic transition to a more agrarian way of life. Simple agriculture will provide them with what the forest cannot anymore."

What does this help cost?

"If I am helping 3,800 pygmies for only $20,000, and I rarely spend that much a year, it is $5.26 a person per year. This is less than the cost of one CARE package that often does more harm than good.

"This program is not a project against hunger that would really never be solved. Feeding the hungry is a very sentimental, unrealistic attitude. Giving the hungry a means of helping themselves is the only real solution in the long run. But that is hard. You have to go there, you have to teach, you have to persuade, insist over and over, and it's rough."

PYGMY PROTECTOR — Jean-Pierre Hallet walks through a Bantu village with his pygmy friends to show the taller people his friendship to and protection of the pygmy people.

What makes the pygmies unique?

"They are not only so original physically and biologically, but in their moral and spiritual life they are totally unique. They are the only group of human beings today on the planet earth that is totally crimeless, greedless and still live in harmony with nature. If those people are gone, it's like letting die the very root of beauty of humanity."

How does the pygmy view the rest of the world?

"A pygmy sees the whole world as a speck of dust in the immensity of the universe, that is, the home of God. They have a very sad new song that ends up by saying that when the last tree will be cut, the last man on earth will die.

"An airplane once passed overhead while we were sitting around the fire and I said: 'We are so smart. We put together a bird so we can go anywhere in the world in a matter of a few hours.' And then an old man replied: 'Well, it may be okay for you, but I personally feel sorry for people who will die.' (See EXPLORER, page 12)

Explorer a patchwork of old African scars

By Klaus Rothe

PASADENA — Undoubtedly the largest pygmy ever to come out of Africa, he stands 6 feet 5 inches and weighs 240 pounds. He is Jean-Pierre Hallet, an explorer who spends considerable time with his family, the pygmies, working to save these unique people from extinction.

"For all practical purposes I became an Efe pygmy, sharing in every respect the merciless realities of my adopted people's existence," he wrote in one of three best-selling books on Africa, its people, animals and his adventures.

Ironically, the very people he dedicates himself to saving once tried to kill him. In 1957 a poisoned arrow pierced his leg after he unsuccessfully tried to convince the pygmies, who had never seen a white man, that he wished to help them.

"I stood there with the poison arrow sticking out of my leg and I said, 'I know you shot me with mutali poison.' They were intrigued that I could speak their language and I knew what they shot me with.

"Before I die I wanted to tell you that I love you, I care about you and I want to prevent you from following the same course that I'm about to go through. I don't want you to die. I want to keep you alive."

Mr. Hallet then told the pygmies, "There is enough mutali to kill a big monkey in one hour and since I am bigger than the biggest monkey around, it will probably take three hours!"

His sense of humor saved him. The pygmies proceeded to rescue him from the effects of the poison, a three-week process accompanied by high temperature and infection.

His colorful life includes several brushes with death: blackwater fever, a knife slash in his leg and a dynamite explosion that blew off his right hand at the wrist and caused a loss of 75 percent of his hearing. Though bleeding profusely, he swam through a lake, narrowly escaping crocodiles, to begin a 200-mile odyssey of pain in an incredible effort to reach a hospital.

A year later, one-handed, he attacked and killed a leopard that was mauling one of his porters.

He calls his body a patchwork quilt of old African scars and scoffs at those who have at one time listed him as 79 percent disabled.

"There is not one thing I cannot do with five fingers. And whenever I do something with five fingers, and I realize other people need twice as many fingers to do it, it gives me a lot of satisfaction. A person with 10 fingers is a handicapped person compared to one with five because he needs twice as much to do the job.

"The only true handicap is to have your heart covered with the snow of pessimism and cynicism and lacking the enthusiasm, the faith, the courage to live well and make your dreams become reality."

Ministers bring truth to Lesotho during three-night lecture series

By Syd Hull

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — The main purpose of this trip to Lesotho was to deliver three Plain Truth lectures and visit some prospective members along the way.

Our first lecture was to be given in Mafeteng, a small town about 50 miles south of Maseru, which is the Lesotho capital.

On arrival at Mafeteng, we had difficulty finding the hall. We finally met up with a prospective member, a Mr. Mphou, who directed us to the site. Somewhat to our surprise the location turned out to be the Assemblies of God hall! We were enthusiastically greeted and welcomed by the local minister of this church, Mr. S.M. Lekoetje, who kindly put his facilities at our disposal.

Mr. Lekoetje then offered to interpret my introductory remarks and also the lecture. I agreed to this mainly because I would be able to monitor everything he said, being fluent in Sesuto myself.

At the same time I thought it would be advantageous to us if that minister repeated God's truth to some of his own congregation.

Brief hesitation

This man acquitted himself well of his task. He is a dynamic and polished speaker, and he interpreted, also reading from the Sesuto Bible, with enthusiasm, zeal and personality. The crunch came when I said in English, "Nowhere does the Bible teach that we go to heaven when we die. In fact, no one has ascended up to heaven!"

Mr. Lekoetje hesitated for a brief moment; his hand went to his head and then he blurted it out just as I had said it!

The 1½-hour lecture was followed by a question-and-answer session lasting three hours, during which this minister looked reflective. However, throughout the entire proceedings he backed us all the way.

The audience of 34, among whom were four other ministers of religion, was most attentive and even asked questions during the lecture.

We had to prove our credentials. During the question-and-answer session, in which the entire audience participated, the "Rev." Vass tried to trip us up on the Trinity.

"What words do you use, when baptizing people?" he asked.

I replied, "In the name of the Father, of the Son and of the Holy Spirit."

Mr. Vass started smiling.

Then I added: "Meaning into the Family of God, because without the Holy Spirit, which is the very power of God, no one can be born into God's Family. No one can receive eternal life."

Then Mr. Vass delivered his trump card.

"Mr. Hull, we have a hymn we sing. It is called 'The Blessed Trinity.'"

Not proof

"I regret I cannot accept that as proof of the Trinity, Mr. Vass, as that hymn is not inspired, as only God's Word is," I replied.

The audience laughed audibly and Mr. Vass left, obviously disappointed, the smile having long since evaporated.

Another minister, Mr. I.M. Thobala, after persistent questioning had to admit while rubbing his head that he was "very confused." Whereupon he subsequently requested many of our booklets.

The entire audience was shocked to realize that all they had accepted from professing Christianity is mainly false. After being answered to their satisfaction, they thanked us for being able to bring them God's truth. The three remaining ministers as well as the entire audience asked us to come again and also requested more literature.

Mr. Lekoetje, our interpreter, then asked if he could close in prayer, to which I agreed. He proceeded to thank God for sending us to teach them His truth! Also that he was grateful to have helped us. Thus ended an unusual experience.

Later the evening of the 7th we visited a member's home and met two fine people: a nursing sister — daughter of a Lesotho chief — and her son. She occupies a senior post while her son is in his early 20s.

They asked us some good questions. Which is God's Church? Why did He raise it up? What's its job? Who will do it? And where do they fit in?

Second lecture

Our second lecture was given April 8 at the A.M.E. James Hall in Maseru. This was also the location of the subsequent third PT lecture.

The lecture began at 3 p.m. with an attendance of 55 and ended at 6:45.

Once again an enthusiastic meeting. Again shock when they realized they had been deceived. Even during the lecture they had discussions back and forth and asked questions.

Anyone belaboring a point was Syd Hull, minister in Johannesburg, South Africa, visited the country of Lesotho April 7 to 9. He describes his trip in this report.

quickly silenced by prominent members of the audience who said they had come to learn and demand precise answers. We were tactful in answering. We were direct but tried not to hurt or offend them. Discussions of subjects such as the Sabbath, the Holy Spirit, the Trinity and others were taken up in nearly 2½ hours of a group question-and-answer session.

A group of young people, sincere and earnest, discussed at length the Sabbath and resurrection. Almost the entire group stayed for this session after the main session had ended.

Two detectives were sent to cover the meeting. This is normal in Africa. But they assured us that they are both Plain Truth readers.

Again the top strata of Lesotho society attended. It was an intelligent audience of a high standard.

The third and final lecture was given the next day, April 9, during a heavy downpour of rain in Maseru. The format was the same except for minor differences. Ninety-eight people attended.

Once again we were blessed with a successful meeting conducted almost entirely in Sesotho. We were questioned again even during the lecture. However, no confusion was evident, but decorum and order.

Settled audience

This time the audience was far more settled, their minds seemingly open. Two cabinet ministers of the Lesotho government and other dignitaries attended.

We prefaced the lecture with a brief discussion (as a result of the previous meeting) with proof that God's Holy Spirit is as available today as it was during the time of the apostles. We were challenged on this subject.

One minister of religion also claimed that all strong drink was taboo. He came off second best.

After the lecture the audience participated in lively and enthusiastic questions and answers. The questions were no pushovers; they merited thought and consideration.

When one individual became argumentative, regarding this being the true Church, the Lesotho minister of immigration and interior intervened. He addressed this pushy fellow and said: "My friend, we have come here to learn and we are learning. You are trying to argue. The speaker is not here to force you in any direction. If you do not want to accept what he says, you don't have to. I have come to learn and others have questions they would like to ask. Now, sit down!"

Suddenly the man seemed very tired; he sat down.

I would like to quote what this minister of immigration said as he addressed us from the audience. "You men have brought a most refreshing and unique approach to religion into this country. It is a breath of fresh air much needed. This group consists of people from many different churches. But this makes no difference; we welcome you."

Both he and one of Prime Minister Leabua Jonathan's chief assistants then asked us to come back again — soon and often.

Embarrassingly pointed

A chief's daughter said, "All other religions have been teaching falsely and have brought misery to this country, but from The Plain Truth, from all your literature and from you we have received the truth."

She was embarrassingly pointed. God has shown His hand here. At the final meeting, with the rain pelting down, we should (speaking physically) have had the least successful meeting. Yet it turned out to be the most successful; God added nearly 40 more people to the previous day's total.

The present above-average response to our meetings was as a result of the growth God has caused through The Plain Truth penetration into Lesotho. Eighteen months ago we achieved a PT breakthrough into the highest echelons of Lesotho society. It was a concentrated effort and God has caused a concentrated effect. Some 1,400 letters were sent out, generating a total of 187.

All the audience was shocked at the realization that they had been deceived all along by the false "white man's religion."

The wrong approach, word, action or even attitude towards these people (in our dealings or follow-up), who are generally well-above-average in status and position, could not only turn them off, but could be of inestimable damage to our future Work of God in Lesotho.

Artist produces children's book on exodus

By Dave Odar

BALTIMORE, Md. — Carl Kelly, a member of the Baltimore congregation and a professional artist for the Westinghouse Corp., has found an interesting way to put his talents to use.

"Over the years I have seen some of the children I grew close to leave God's Church, and that hurt," he says. "I asked myself, 'What can I do to help them see the reality of God better?' My talents lie in being an artist, so it eventually became apparent that that was what I had to offer."

Graphic illustrations

What Carl has done is produce a graphically illustrated book for children titled It Is Written — The Story of the Exodus. The book, which he is publishing and mailing himself to reduce costs, contains 78 pages of drawings and descriptions intended to help the biblical account become more real and memorable for the children (and parents) who read it.

The printing is on high-quality paper that is suited for coloring, an activity the pictures invite. The hope is that, through reading, seeing the pictures and coloring them, the story and lessons will be more firmly implanted in the reader's mind.

What is entailed in producing such a book?

"This particular book has taken 14 months to produce, but future books in the It Is Written series should take less than that," says Carl. "When I read the biblical account I see in pictures what is written. The pictures are fuzzy at first, but, as I reread and do research on the events, more and more of the details of that picture emerge."

For character models he used pictures of himself and his family. Photographs of their facial expressions depicting fear, anger, awe, surprise and other emotions were taken. From these pictures the expressions found throughout the book were drawn. Research into local topography, architecture, dress and plants and animals was part of the effort in order to portray the background as accurately as possible.

Locust plague

Carl relates how an article about a locust plague in Africa appeared in a Baltimore paper. The article included a picture of the locusts devouring a plant. Carl also mentioned these were the same locusts of Bible times that caused plagues then.

Yet they were definitely not the insect Americans commonly call a locust. So the picture drawn in It Is Written is of the proper locust, more like our cicada.

"One of the greatest obstacles for me to overcome in doing this book was my own lethargy," Carl says. "One day it finally occurred to me that God's day starts in the evening. I just had to force myself to get up and do something. There were many nights I had to push myself to do the work. But toward the end you couldn't keep me away from it."

Two graduates

ADA, Okla. — A combination ladies' night and graduation ceremony at the Holiday Inn May 17 marked the last meeting of the Spokesman Club here.

After a fine meal, pastor David Carley introduced the club president, David Bivens. He and Herschel Miller gave their last speeches and received certificates of graduation. Also speaking were Don Russell and Wiley Pitts.

Sunburns and lost glasses

BATON ROUGE, La. — Brethren here gathered at a camp and recreation site for the annual church picnic May 21. Chef Landice Singletary treated the 150 brethren to his barbecued chicken and sausages. Salads, beans and desserts soon disappeared, chased down by a variety of drinks.

Fierce volleyball games were played all hours. At a slower pace were horse-shoe games, canoeing, swimming, fishing, boating, waterskiing and sunbathing. Despite sunburns, lost glasses, two cut feet and aching bones, all had a great time. Laurinda Clement.

Decorating ideas

BELLE VERNON, Pa. — Members of the MISCY (May I Serve You) Club were treated to many workable ideas on decorating at their May 21 meeting. Informative speeches were given by Hazel Miller, Josephine Lamm and Linda Sproul. Louise Bogol gave an icebreaker.

One of the club's projects was to collect new and used educational toys to donate to the Fayette County Society for Crippled Children. The effort was well rewarded by the thanks and appreciation from the recipients. Peggy Henry.

Jefferson Pilgrimage

BIG SANDY, Tex. — With light hearts and high spirits, members of the Silver Ambassadors, the senior-citizens' club, boarded vans and private cars May 7 destined for historic Jefferson, Tex., once a bustling port city.

The Jefferson Pilgrimage is a yearly event featuring tours of historic homes, Jay Gould's private railroad car, a hotel furnished in antique furniture that has been in continuous operation since it opened in the late 1800s and the Jefferson Historic Museum.

The Silver Ambassadors returned home in the late afternoon, making plans to attend again next year and take in tours they missed due to lack of time. Lela Fisk.

Three seminars

BOISE, Idaho — Art Mokarow presented three Human Potential seminars in four days here, also delivering the sermon on the Sabbath, May 6, to the combined congregations of the Boise and Ontario, Ore., churches.

The first seminar, "Marketing, Management and Motivation," was presented May 4 to the Sales and Marketing Executives of Boise, Inc., with about 100 attending. Mr. Mokarow had spoken to the same group a year ago and was back by popular demand.

The second seminar, "Challenge of Change," was given May 5 at the 16th annual state convention of the International Association of Personnel in Employment Security. He answered numerous questions and recommended books on the subject.

The third seminar, "Personal Identity," was May 7 with the public invited and no admission price. About 350 attended. Members were directly involved in taking tickets, ushering, manning display tables, operating recorders, tallying questionnaires, taking photographs and working as cashiers. Ron Sower.

Interest in volleyball and track is now in the forefront. Charles Dickey.

Tournament disguises celebration

PENTICTON, B.C. — Some people will do anything to celebrate their wedding anniversary. For example, the anniversary of Salmon Arm, B.C., pastor Ken Webster and his wife Kim gave five area churches a cause to congregate.

Under the guise of a softball tournament, brethren from Penticton, Kamloops, Salmon Arm and Kelowna, B.C., and Tonasket, Wash., gathered here on the Canadian Victoria Day holiday weekend. Men's, women's and children's games were included.

A side of beef provided a delicious part of the mouth-watering barbecued-steak dinner after the first day of games. About 150 brethren feasted till dusk at a wooded campsite on Okanagan Lake.

No true anniversary weekend would be complete without the memory of victory, so Kelowna, it was reported, graciously bowed to defeat in Salmon Arm's second game the next day.

Another such outing is planned, providing someone else has an anniversary that needs celebrating. Jon Kurnik.

Annual Youth Day

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo. — The annual Youth Day of the church here was May 13 as teens took on the various duties for Sabbath services.

Bottle-cap spotters

The dinner was prepared under the guidance of Mrs. Roger Foster and served by the group's members.

Following dinner was the fund-raising slave auction, with bearded Dan Deininger, the YOU director, keeping the selling and buying moving at a fast pace. As eager bidders raised their bids, the teens flexed their muscles and stated their talents, from doing housework, landscaping and washing cars to dry-wall finishing and working with leather.

Sixteen teens were auctioned with hourly wages ranging from $2 to $10. The top bid of the night was for Mr. Deininger himself. Some teens even formed conglomerates to bid on other teens. Vernie Enos.

Camp-out in the Ardennes

UTRECHT, Netherlands — Twenty-four young people ages 12 to 30 from the Tilburg and Utrecht churches went camping in Ochamps, Belgium, in the Ardennes Mountains, under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Harold van Verbergh and Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Evers May 12 to 16.

Despite cloudiness, cold nights and rain, the campers created their own sunshine with enthusiasm, participating in badminton, soccer and volleyball competitions. Jan Ursem organized the weekend activities. Mr. Evers and Gerrit Kerma led early-bird hikes through the high wet grass and around mud puddles in the dirt roads to watch wildlife. Some experimented with horseback riding.

A morning visit to the caves of Han, a small village in the Ardennes, was a high point. Outside was the rain and inside was the drip, drip, drip of the stalactites.

A quiz led by the Evers family tested the intelligence of the campers. Nightly sing-alongs around the camp fire created a special atmosphere of togetherness.

This was the third year for the annual camp-out in the Belgium Ardennes. Many of the teens were members of the YOU chapter. Ben Brunting.

AICF cosponsors tournament

PASADENA — The United States Chess Championship 15-round tournament, jointly sponsored by the United States Chess Federation and the Ambassador International Cultural Foundation (AICF), began Sunday, June 4, in the Fine Arts Hall at Ambassador College and will continue through June 25. The zonal tournament is the first to be held on the West Coast and begins a four-year cycle that determines the candidates for the world championship in 1981.

Walter Browne, defending U.S. champion and winner of the title for the last three years, walked out on the first round, claiming his particular playing area was not sufficiently lighted. Mr. Browne's refusal to play cost him an opportunity to play in an interzonal tournament next year and lost him any possibility of retaining his title, said grand master Isaac Kashdan, tournament director.

Mr. Kashdan explained: "Each player has to make 40 moves within the 2½ hours, approximately three minutes per move. If they fail to make that number of moves the game is forfeited. We have to have rules. A person must play when he's supposed to or not at all."

A meeting of the players' grievance committee late Sunday upheld the forfeit.

Of the 11 zones in the world, three countries, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics (U.S.S.R.), the United States and Canada, run their own zonal tournaments. The United States is qualified to have three top players compete in the interzonal tournaments. [The three leaders of the Pasadena tournament (winners will be reported in a later edition of the GN)] qualify to go on toward world-championship competition and will be among the 35 to 45 players from the 11 zones competing in the interzonal matches of next year. The first-place winner will receive a prize of $4,200. Other entrants receive lesser amounts.

The best players of the interzonal matches qualify for a series of candidate matches in 1980. The eight leaders in the candidate matches play a series of elimination matches to determine the contender for the reigning world champion in 1981.

According to Mr. Kashdan, the present cycle, overlapped by these preliminary zonal tournaments, ends July 16 in Baguio, Philippines, when Anatoly Karpov of the U.S.S.R. and Victor Korchnoi, formerly of the U.S.S.R. (a defector from the Soviet Union), compete for the world championship.

 who are so unhappy where they are that they have to go so high to go elsewhere, to escape from their family, their children. Happiness is in the family. Happiness is a good wife, happiness is the smile of a child, and if you are not happy with that, you will be happy with nothing else."

What rules do the pygmies live by?

"In the primitive culture, especially among the pygmy, the first rules are to love the children, respect old people and preserve the family.

"We, on the other hand, are very much a Disneyland culture where people are raised with fantasy from Cinderella to comic-book heroes.

"My point is this, if you raise a child with fantasy, when he gets to grammar school and he sits in a classroom, the teacher doesn't talk about Cinderella and Snow White and Charlie Brown. She teaches kids to count, to read, to write. And the kids say, Hey, this is not fun. So they seek back the TV-comic book fantasy they have lost from their childhood and the best way to get it is to sniff a little glue later on, smoke a little joint, pop a few pills and so on."

Where does your work with pygmies stand now?

"With the support of The Plain Truth and its readers along with others, the population of our pygmy friends is now stabilized.

"The situation is still fragile, doesn't have much roots, but the program goes on.

"Support to keep our work going is very important right now. I have sold practically everything I own to compensate for the lack of funds I was unable to raise this passing year. I continue to seek more supporters to the pygmy fund and wish to take this opportunity to thank those who supported the pygmies as a result of The Plain Truth article."

The address of "The Pygmy Fund," is Box 1067, Malibu, Calif., 90265.
